IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF ARIZONA

Randy Jacobs, et al.,

No. MC-23-00032-PHX-DWL

Plaintiffs,

ORDER

V.

Advanced Dermatology & Skin Cancer Specialists PC, et al.,

Defendants.

INTRODUCTION

This subpoena enforcement action arises out of a lawsuit that Dr. Randy Jacobs (“Dr. Jacobs”) filed in July 2020 in the Central District of California (“the California Action”) against Advanced Dermatology & Skin Cancer Specialists, P.C. (“Advanced Dermatology”) and some of its directors, officers, and employees. In April 2022, Dr. Jacobs filed a First Amended Complaint (“FAC”) in the California Action naming Desert Dermatology & Skin Care Specialists, Inc. (“Desert Dermatology”) as an additional defendant. (Doc. 1-2 at 2-44.) However, in September 2022, the judge overseeing the California Action dismissed all claims against Desert Dermatology with leave to amend. (United States ex rel. Jacobs v. Advanced Dermatology & Skin Cancer Specialists, P.C., et al., No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK (C.D. Cal.), Dkt. 70.)

In April 2023, in connection with the California Action, Dr. Jacobs served a Rule 45 subpoena on Desert Dermatology seeking documents concerning Desert Dermatology's relationship with Advanced Dermatology and its directors, officers, and employees and

1 concerning Desert Dermatology's medical and billing practices. (Doc. 1-3 at 2-12.) In 2 August 2023, Dr. Jacobs filed, in the District of Arizona, a motion to compel Desert
 3 Dermatology to produce the subpoenaed documents. (Doc. 1.)

4 While the motion to compel was pending, Dr. Jacobs filed a Second Amended 5 Complaint ("SAC") in the California Action that re-added Desert Dermatology as a 6 defendant. (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkt. 154.) In October 2023, Dr. Jacobs served 7 requests for production on Desert Dermatology in the California Action that are 8 substantially identical to the requests for production in the subpoena. (Doc. 11 at 4-12.)

9 In light of these developments, the Court concludes that the most prudent course of 10 action is to transfer Dr. Jacobs's pending motion to the issuing court in the Central District 11 of California pursuant to Rule 45(f) and close this miscellaneous action.<sup>1</sup>

12 BACKGROUND

13 I. The Parties And Other Relevant Entities

14 Advanced Dermatology has its principal place of business in Temecula, California 15 and office locations in Temecula, Hemet, San Bernardino, Riverside, Corona, Menifee, 16 Sun City, Moreno Valley, Victorville, La Quinta, and Palm Springs, California. (Doc. 1-2 17 at 5 ¶ 7.) "The corporation also has affiliated offices in Yuba City and Stockton, doing 18 business as Advanced Dermatology & Skin Cancer Specialists of Northern California."
 19 (Id.)

20 Desert Dermatology is an Arizona corporation with its principal place of business 21 in Tucson, Arizona and office locations in Gilbert and Glendale, Arizona. (Id. at 5 ¶ 8.)
 22 "Desert Dermatology is a related entity to Advanced Dermatology with common 23 ownership, leadership, and practices." (Id.)

24 Advanced Dermatology and Desert Dermatology are Medicare/Medicaid providers.
 25 (Id. at 10 ¶ 23.) Advanced Dermatology and Desert Dermatology offer patients Mohs 26 micrographic surgery ("Mohs surgery"), "a specialized technique for the removal of skin

27 28 <sup>1</sup> Desert Dermatology's request for oral argument is denied because the issues are fully briefed and oral argument will not aid the decisional process. See LRCiv 7.2(f).

1 cancer.” (Id. at 15 ¶ 48.) “The vast majority of [Advanced Dermatology’s and Desert 2 Dermatology’s] patients indicated for Mohs surgery are over the age of 65 and are 3 Medicare beneficiaries.” (Id. at 19 ¶ 70.) Under Medicare, “Mohs is a bundled code and 4 can only be bundled if the same doctor performs all elements of the procedure—otherwise, 5 the lower reimbursable, separate codes are to be used (for essentially the same overall 6 process). Medicare also separately reimburses for each stage of Mohs surgery performed 7 in removing cancer. Hence, the more stages of Mohs surgery that are performed, the higher 8 the reimbursement from Medicare.” (Id. at 17 ¶ 60.)

9 Dr. Jacobs “is a board-certified clinical dermatologist.” (Id. at 4 ¶ 6.)

10 Dr. Jesse Mitchell (“Dr. Mitchell”) is a “Dermatologist at Advanced Dermatology 11 and Desert Dermatology, is listed as the owner of Advanced Dermatology, and is a director 12 of Desert Dermatology.” (Id. at 5 ¶ 9.)

13 Christopher Clem “is a non-physician” who “directs both the day-to-day operations 14 and the broader management of both Advanced Dermatology and Desert Dermatology” 15 and “is listed with the Arizona Secretary of State as an officer of Desert Dermatology.”
 16 (Id. at 5 ¶ 10.)

17 II. The California Action

18 On July 9, 2020, Dr. Jacobs filed the California Action, naming Advanced 19 Dermatology, Dr. Mitchell, and Dr. Roupen Yaghsezian as defendants. (No. 20-cv-01373-20 JGB-SHK, Dkt. 1.) The complaint alleged violations of the False Claims Act (“FCA”) 21 arising out of Advanced Dermatology’s billing practices for Mohs procedures. (Id. at 22-22 30.)

23 On April 29, 2022, Dr. Jacobs filed the FAC in the California Action, naming Desert 24 Dermatology and Clem as additional defendants. (Doc. 1-2 at 2-44.) In relevant part, the 25 FAC alleges as follows:

26 Dr. Mitchell and Chris Clem are also the purported owners and officers of a 27 nearly identically named Desert Dermatology . . . . Dr. Mitchell performs 28 the Mohs medical procedures connected to the false claims in the [California]
 Action. Dr. Mitchell performs the same medical procedures in Arizona

1 through [Desert Dermatology]. Overall, the individual Defendants appear to 2 be engaged in the same fraudulent billing practices through [Desert
 3 Dermatology] including using pathologists and omitting their NPI numbers 4 from [Desert Dermatology's] billing (using the same billing company—run by Mr. Clem's family), entering kickback arrangements with pathologists, using unsupervised PAs, and violating CLIA.

5 (Doc. 1 at 2-3.)

6 On June 17, 2022, Desert Dermatology filed a motion to dismiss the claims against 7 it in the FAC for lack of personal jurisdiction. (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkt. 48.)

8 On September 28, 2022, the Central District of California granted Desert
 9 Dermatology's motion to dismiss with leave to amend and set an October 11, 2022 deadline
 10 for further amending the complaint. (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkt. 70.)

11 On February 2, 2023, the Central District of California set an April 24, 2023 12 deadline to amend the pleadings or add new parties to the California Action (No. 20-cv-13 01373-JGB-SHK, Dkt. 90 at 1), and later extended this deadline to August 24, 2023 (No.
 14 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkt. 100 at 2).

15 III. Rule 45 Subpoena

16 On April 24, 2023, as part of the California Action, Dr. Jacobs obtained a Rule 45 17 subpoena directed to Desert Dermatology. (Doc. 1-3 at 2-12.) The subpoena includes 18 requests for documents related to Desert Dermatology's relationships with Dr. Mitchell, 19 Clem, and Advanced Dermatology; "in any way related to Mohs surgeries, billing, PA 20 supervision, AKS, or CLIA issues"; "in any way related to any contact with the State of 21 California or any person or entity in that state"; "in any way related to billing for Mohs 22 surgeries wherein a surgeon and pathologist work together to complete the procedure"; and 23 "in any way related to billing Mohs surgeries to any FHPB." (Id. at 10-12.) The subpoena 24 requires Desert Dermatology to produce the documents in Phoenix, Arizona. (Id. at 2.)

25 On June 13, 2023, Desert Dermatology's counsel responded to the subpoena in 26 writing with several objections. (Doc. 5-1 at 2-12.)

27 On June 27, 2023, Desert Dermatology's counsel sent a supplemental response to 1 the subpoena. (Doc. 5 at 2 n.1.)<sup>2</sup>

2 On June 29, 2023, Desert Dermatology's counsel and Dr. Jacobs's counsel
 3 "participated in a lengthy meet and confer telephone conference." (Doc. 5-3 at 4-5 ¶¶ 13-4 16.)

5 On July 27, 2023, after the meet-and-confer conference, Dr. Jacobs's counsel sent 6 a follow-up letter regarding some of the issues discussed during the meet-and-confer 7 conference. (Doc. 5-2 at 18-22.) Desert Dermatology's counsel interpreted the letter as 8 "rais[ing] new substantive legal arguments and purport[ing] to completely re-do Subpoena 9 Request No. 5." (Doc. 5-3 at 16, internal citations omitted.) Desert Dermatology's counsel 10 requested additional time to prepare a response to the subpoena and letter. (Id.)

11 On August 2, 2023, Desert Dermatology's counsel offered to meet and confer with 12 Dr. Jacobs's counsel. (Id. at 7 ¶ 25.) That same day, Dr. Jacobs filed the pending motion 13 to compel. (Doc. 1.)

14 On August 3, 2023, Desert Dermatology's counsel sent a second supplemental 15 response to the subpoena, "including producing approximately 58 pages of documents."
 16 (Doc. 5-2 at 2-16; Doc. 5-3 at 8 ¶ 27.)

17 On August 22, 2023, the motion to compel became fully briefed. (Docs. 5, 6.)

18 IV. Recent Developments

19 On September 25, 2023, Dr. Jacobs filed the SAC in the California Action, re-20 adding Desert Dermatology as a defendant and alleging FCA violations arising from Desert 21 Dermatology's billing practices for Mohs surgeries. (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkt.
 22 154.) The SAC also asserts, in relevant part, that "Desert Dermatology does not maintain 23 a separate identity from Advanced Dermatology, SoCal, Dr. Mitchell, or Clem." (Id. at 51 24 ¶ 235.)

25 On October 12, 2023, Dr. Jacobs served Rule 34 requests for production on Desert

 27 <sup>2</sup> Desert Dermatology's first supplemental response to the subpoena is not included 28 in the record. (Id. ["To limit the volume before the Court, Desert Dermatology is not providing its first supplemental response, dated June 27, 2023."].)

1 Dermatology in the California Action. (Doc. 11 at 4-12.) The requests for production in 2 the California Action are essentially identical to the requests for production in the 3 subpoena. (Compare Doc. 11 at 10-12 with Doc. 1-3 at 10-12.)<sup>3</sup>

4 On October 20, 2023, Desert Dermatology filed a motion to dismiss the claims 5 against it in the SAC for lack of personal jurisdiction, lack of prosecution, and failure to 6 state a claim. (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkt. 184.) That motion is pending.

7 Discovery in the California Action closes on April 18, 2024. (No. 20-cv-01373-8 JGB-SHK, Dkt. 100 at 2.)

9 DISCUSSION

10 I. Rule 45 Subpoena Served On A Party

11 The recent developments in the California Action raise a threshold issue not 12 addressed in the motion-to-compel briefing—whether the change in Desert Dermatology’s 13 status in the California Action, from nonparty to party, undermines the validity of the Rule 14 45 subpoena that Dr. Jacobs seeks to enforce.

15 A. Legal Standard

16 Rule 34(a) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provides that “[a] party may 17 serve on any other party a request” for production of documents. Additionally, Rule 34(c) 18 explains that, “[a]s provided in Rule 45, a nonparty may be compelled to produce 19 documents and tangible things.” Although the juxtaposition of these two provisions might 20 be viewed as suggesting that Rule 34 is the sole mechanism for compelling the production 21 of documents from another party (and that Rule 45 cannot be used for that purpose), Rule 22 45 does not expressly state that a subpoena may only be served on a nonparty—to the 23 contrary, Rule 45(a)(1)(A)(iii) states that a subpoena may be directed to a “person.” As a 24 result, the majority view is that Rule 45 subpoenas can be served on both parties and 25 nonparties. See, e.g., Marten v. Haire, 329 F.R.D. 256, 259 (D. Mont. 2018) (“There may 26 be cases where a Rule 45 subpoena is an appropriate discovery tool when addressed to a 27

28 <sup>3</sup> The only seeming differences between the subpoena and the requests for production in the California Action are the definitions and instructions.

1 party . . . ."); Gaudin v. Remis, 2007 WL 294130, *3 (D. Haw. 2007) ("[C]ourts and 2 commentators have taken conflicting positions on the issue whether a party may serve a 3 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 45 subpoena on another party. . . . [T]he text of Rule 45 4 contains no limitation upon the persons who may be served; it refers to a 'person' who may 5 be served, rather than a 'non-party.' In describing who may serve a subpoena, Rule 6 45(b)(1) refers to a 'person who is not a party.' The drafters could have used the same 7 language to limit who may be served with a subpoena, but they chose not to do so. . . . This 8 Court . . . [thus] concludes that a Rule 45 subpoena may be served on a party.") (cleaned 9 up). See generally 1 Gensler, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rules and Commentary, 10 Rule 45, at 1349 (2022) ("The courts are split on whether a party may nonetheless serve a 11 subpoena on another party as part of the discovery process. The majority view is that it is 12 allowed.").

13 But even under the majority view, a Rule 45 subpoena "cannot be used to 14 circumvent Rule 34 or the other discovery rules." McCall v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins.
 15 Co., 2017 WL 3174914, *6 (D. Nev. 2017). See generally Gensler, supra, Rule 45, at 1349 16 ("However, the subpoena process cannot be used to circumvent party-discovery 17 restrictions in the discovery rules."). Examples of circumvention include when a party 18 "attempt[s] to use a Rule 45 subpoena to subvert the meet and confer requirements of 19 [Rule] 37," Marten, 329 F.R.D. at 260; when a party uses a Rule 45 subpoena to circumvent 20 a scheduling order, Layman v. Junior Players Golf Acad., Inc., 314 F.R.D. 379, 386 (D.S.C.
 21 2016); and when a party uses the Rule 45 subpoena to require another party to respond to 22 a request for production in a shorter time frame than the 30-day requirement in Rule 34, 23 Olmstead v. Fentress Cnty., Tennessee, 2018 WL 6198428, *4 (M.D. Tenn. 2018).

24       B. Analysis

25 The Court is satisfied that Dr. Jacobs is not using his Rule 45 subpoena to Desert 26 Dermatology to circumvent Rule 34 or other discovery requirements. Because Desert 27 Dermatology was not a party to the California Action at the time Dr. Jacobs first made the 28 requests for production, it was appropriate for Dr. Jacobs to rely on Rule 45 as the basis

1 for those requests. Further, Dr. Jacobs served the subpoena on Desert Dermatology well 2 before the original discovery deadline in the California Action (i.e., December 18, 2023), 3 which has since been extended. (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkt. 90 [scheduling order]; 4 Dkt. 100 [extending deadlines set in scheduling order].) Mortg. Info. Servs., Inc. v.
 5 Kitchens, 210 F.R.D. 562, 568 (W.D.N.C. 2002) (“[S]ervice of a Rule 45 subpoena duces
 6 tecum upon a party opponent is appropriate when done prior to the close of the discovery
 7 period.”). Finally, Dr. Jacobs did not attempt to force Desert Dermatology to produce 8 documents in a shorter time frame than that required by Rule 34—the parties agreed to set 9 the response date as June 13, 2023, 51 days after service of the subpoena. (Doc. 5-3 at 3.)

10 II. Transfer

11 A. Legal Standard

12 Although Rule 45(a)(2) requires that a Rule 45 subpoena issue from the court where 13 the action is pending (i.e., the issuing court), Rule 45(d)(2)(B)(i) provides that motions to 14 compel compliance with the subpoena must be heard by the district court encompassing 15 the place where compliance is required (i.e., the compliance court). See also Venus Med.
 16 Inc. v. Skin Cancer & Cosm. Dermatology Ctr. PC, 2016 WL 159952, *2 (D. Ariz. 2016).
 17 Accordingly, Dr. Jacobs properly filed the motion to compel in the District of Arizona.

18 Nevertheless, under Rule 45(f), “[w]hen the court where compliance is required did 19 not issue the subpoena, it may transfer a motion under this rule to the issuing court if the 20 person subject to the subpoena consents or if the court finds exceptional circumstances.” 21 Id. The Advisory Committee notes provide the following explanation concerning the 22 “exceptional circumstances” standard:

23 The prime concern should be avoiding burdens on local nonparties subject to 24 subpoenas, and it should not be assumed that the issuing court is in a superior 25 position to resolve subpoena-related motions. In some circumstances, 26 however, transfer may be warranted in order to avoid disrupting the issuing 27 court’s management of the underlying litigation, as when that court has 28 already ruled on issues presented by the motion or the same issues are likely to arise in discovery in many districts. Transfer is appropriate only if such interests outweigh the interests of the nonparty served with the subpoena in obtaining local resolution of the motion.

1     Id. See also Fed. Ins. Co. v. Tungsten Heavy Powder & Parts, Inc., 2022 WL 2820667, *5 2     (S.D. Cal. 2022) (“The primary purpose of resolving subpoena-related motions in 3     nonparties’ home district is to protect them from the burden of challenging a subpoena in 4     a remote location.”) (quotations and citations omitted); Venus Med., 2016 WL 159952 at 5     *2 (“[T]he court must balance the interest of local resolution against factors such as judicial 6     economy and risk of inconsistent rulings.”). “Ultimately, whether to transfer a subpoena-7     related motion is committed to the discretion of the court where compliance is required.”
 8     Hall v. Marriott Int’l Inc., 2021 WL 3129598, *1 (N.D. Cal. 2021). The compliance court’s 9     decision to transfer a motion to compel “may be made either on motion or sua sponte.”
 10     Gov’t Emps. Health Ass’n v. Actelion Pharm., Ltd., 2022 WL 5414401, *2 (S.D. Ohio 11     2022). See also Victim Servs., Inc. v. Consumer Fin. Prot. Bureau, 298 F. Supp. 3d 26, 28 12     (D.D.C. 2018) (“Where exceptional circumstances exist, a court may transfer such a 13     subpoena-related motion sua sponte.”).

14                  B.     Analysis

15                  1.     Risk Of Disrupting Issuing Court’s Case Management

16     In determining whether transfer under Rule 45(f) is appropriate, courts “consider[] 17     a number of factors relating to the underlying litigation including the . . . complexity, 18     procedural posture, duration of pendency, and the nature of the issues pending before, or 19     already resolved by, the issuing court in the underlying litigation.” E4 Strategic Solutions, 20     Inc. v. Pebble Ltd. P’ship, 2015 WL 12746706, *3 (C.D. Cal. 2015) (internal quotations 21     omitted). Exceptional circumstances may exist “where ruling on the motion to compel 22     would . . . risk disruption of the issuing court’s management of the underlying litigation,” 23     Mirza v. Yelp, Inc., 2021 WL 2939922, *3 (N.D. Cal. 2021), such as “[w]hen the issuing 24     court has already ruled on issues presented by a subpoena-related motion,” Moon Mountain 25     Farms, LLC v. Rural Cnty. Ins. Co., 301 F.R.D. 426, 429 (N.D. Cal. 2014), or when “the 26     same issues are likely to arise in discovery in many districts,” Fed. R. Civ. P. 45, advisory 27     committee notes to the 2013 amendments. In these circumstances, the issuing court “is in 28     a better position to rule on [discovery-related] motions due [to] its familiarity with the 1 issues involved.” Moon Mountain Farms, 301 F.R.D. at 430.

2       Exceptional circumstances warranting transfer exist here for several reasons. As an 3 initial matter, the California Action has been pending since July 2020 and much discovery
 4 has already taken place under the issuing court’s supervision. Venus Med., 2016 WL 5 159952 at *3 (“Judicial economy also weighs in favor of transfer. The underlying action is 6 over three years old and involves discovery sought from several defendants.”); In re UBS
 7 Fin. Servs., Inc. of Puerto Rico Sec. Litig., 113 F. Supp. 3d 286, 288 (D.D.C. 2015)
 8 (concluding that the pendency of the underlying litigation for almost three and a half years 9 weighed in favor of transfer); Full Circle United, LLC v. Bay Tek Ent., Inc., 581 F. Supp.
 10 3d 523, 525 (S.D.N.Y. 2022) (finding that ongoing discovery in the underlying action, 11 among other factors, weighed in favor of transfer); In re Disposable Contact Lens Antitrust 12 Litig., 306 F. Supp. 3d 372, 379 (D.D.C. 2017) (“[T]he Issuing Court ‘has already 13 supervised substantial discovery’—which is a factor that weighs in favor of transfer under 14 Rule 45(f).”) (citation omitted). See also In re All. Healthcare Partners, LLC, 2022 WL 15 16527952, *4 (D. Ariz. 2022) (underlying case pending for nearly a year and a half).

16       More important, under the unique procedural circumstances here, the issuing court 17 is much better suited than this Court to evaluate Desert Dermatology’s objections to the 18 subpoena, which include “lack of particularity, lack of proportionality, undue burden and 19 expense, [and] ambiguity.” (Doc. 5 at 10.) Desert Dermatology also argues, inter alia, 20 that Request Nos. 6 and 7 “are irrelevant” and “deeply intrusive into Desert Dermatology’s 21 business practices and operations.” (Id. at 12.) Evaluating the relevance of Dr. Jacobs’s 22 requests for production will require consideration of Desert Dermatology’s status in the 23 California Action and connection to Advanced Dermatology, issues currently being 24 litigated in the California Action (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkt. 154 [SAC adding 25 Desert Dermatology, among others, as a defendant]; Dkt. 184 [motion to dismiss the SAC 26 and hearing set for December 11, 2023]; Dkt. 198 [response to motion to dismiss the 27 SAC].)<sup>4</sup> Given that Desert Dermatology’s objections to the subpoena implicate issues in

28 <sup>4</sup> The parties dispute Desert Dermatology’s connection to Advanced Dermatology in the motion-to-compel briefing. (Doc. 5 at 13 [“Desert Dermatology does not have an

1 the California Action with which the issuing court is familiar, the issuing court is best 2 suited to decide the motion to compel. Flynn v. FCA US LLC, 216 F. Supp. 3d 44, 47
 3 (D.D.C. 2016) (“Because the Judge and the Magistrate Judge involved in the underlying 4 case are knee-deep in the nuances of the underlying litigation, they are in a much better 5 position than this Court to evaluate relevance. Accordingly, the centrality of the relevance 6 issue to resolving the motion to quash strongly weighs in favor of transferring the motion 7 to the issuing court.”) (internal citation omitted); Wultz v. Bank of China, Ltd., 304 F.R.D.
 8 38, 46 (D.D.C. 2014) (“[The issuing court] is in a better position to rule on the intervenors’
 9 motion to quash or modify the subpoena due to her familiarity with the full scope of issues 10 involved as well as any implications the resolution of the motion will have on the 11 underlying litigation.”); XY, LLC v. Trans Ova Genetics, L.C., 307 F.R.D. 10, 12 (D.D.C.
 12 2014) (“[T]he relevance argument advanced emphasizes the need for the court where the 13 underlying matter lies to decide the matter.”) (citation omitted).

14 Separately, Desert Dermatology also argues that Dr. Jacobs’s subpoena is best 15 characterized as “jurisdictional discovery, and this is not allowed” because Dr. Jacobs “did 16 not ask the [issuing court] for permission to conduct jurisdictional discovery in Arizona.”
 17 (Doc. 5 at 14, capitalization omitted.) Desert Dermatology also argues that Dr. Jacobs’s 18 “subpoena in Arizona is inconsistent with the California Court’s Order [rejecting his 19 request for jurisdictional discovery relating to Desert Dermatology] and clear intent that 20 jurisdictional discovery is unwarranted.” (Id.) In response, Dr. Jacobs argues that he “is 21 in no way precluded from asking questions that may reveal facts relevant to personal 22 jurisdiction.” (Doc. 6 at 11.) Further, Dr. Jacobs argues that jurisdictional discovery 23 requires a court order “only . . . when seeking discovery before the 26(f)-discovery

24 ownership interest in the main California litigant, Advanced Dermatology; it does not sit 25 on Advanced Dermatology’s board; and it has no financial tie to the outcome of the 26 California case; in other words, these are truly separate entities. Also, Desert Dermatology, 27 with separate counsel, was not involved in any of the alleged underlying events in 28 California; in fact, Desert Dermatology does not do business in California. And the California court has made no determination that Relator should seek documents from nonparty entities with common ownership . . . .]; Doc. 6 at 9 “[C]ourts do not even consider a non-party like DD—an entity owned and controlled by Defendants—to be ‘truly disinterested’ for purposes of Rule 45.”], citations omitted.)

1 conference, which clearly doesn't apply here." (Id. at 12.) These arguments implicate an 2 issue upon which the issuing court has already ruled. In proceedings held on September 3 28, 2022, Judge Bernal stated that "[t]he Court acknowledges Plaintiff's request for 4 discovery on jurisdiction, which Relator asserts would be necessary to establish additional 5 facts. The Court declines to order discovery on the issue at this time." (No. 20-cv-01373-
 6 JGB-SHK, Dkt. 70 at 12 n.7.) Given this backdrop, the issuing court is best suited to decide 7 whether the subpoena constitutes improper jurisdictional discovery. See also Bright House 8 Networks, LLC v. MarkMonitor, Inc., 2020 WL 4464882, *3 (N.D. Cal. 2020) ("The 9 underlying matter has been pending for 500 days and the Middle District has already ruled 10 on discovery disputes in that matter so that court is assuredly more familiar with the 11 relevant issues and technical background of the dispute. Ruling on the Motion to Compel 12 would require this Court to duplicate substantial work already done by that court.") 13 (internal citations omitted); 3B Med., Inc. v. Resmed Corp., 2016 WL 6818953, *3 (S.D.
 14 Cal. 2016) ("The Florida district court has already ruled on discovery-related motions in 15 this matter, including motions of third-party subpoenas. Because the Middle District of 16 Florida is in a better position to rule on these motions based on its familiarity with the 17 issues involved, the Court finds exceptional circumstances exist and that transfer is 18 permitted under Rule 45.") (internal citation omitted).

19 Yet another exceptional circumstance supporting transfer is that Desert 20 Dermatology's objections to the subpoena include attorney-client privilege and employee 21 privacy claims. (Doc. 5-2 at 5, 7, 9-11, 13-14.)<sup>5</sup> The issuing court is currently overseeing 22 a related discovery dispute involving privilege assertions. (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, 23 Dkt. 122 [motion to compel privilege log]; Dkt. 129 [opposition to motion to compel 24 privilege log claiming attorney-client privilege]; Dkt. 135 [reply to motion to compel 25 privilege log]; Dkt. 173 [motion for leave to file supplement to motion to compel privilege

26       <sup>5</sup> Desert Dermatology also asserted physician-patient confidentiality in its first 27 response to Dr. Jacobs's subpoena (Doc. 5-1 at 4, 6, 10-12) but retracted that objection 28 before Dr. Jacobs filed the pending motion to compel (Doc. 5 at 3 ["In counsel's meet and confer conference, on June 29, 2023, Relator's counsel asked Desert Dermatology's counsel to reconsider these objections. Desert Dermatology agreed."]).

1 log]; Dkt. 189 [opposition to motion for leave to file supplement to motion to compel 2 privilege log]; Dkt. 190 [granting motion to file supplement]; Dkt. 193 [supplement to 3 motion to compel privilege log].) Although those disputes do not involve Desert 4 Dermatology, it is still the case that “[j]udicial economy would be served by having all 5 discovery disputes resolved by the same court.” Bauer v. Hill, 2023 WL 6170550, *2 (S.D.
6 Ohio 2023).

7 Similarly, the issuing court is best suited to evaluate the parties’ arguments
8 regarding the sufficiency and timeliness of Desert Dermatology’s response to Dr. Jacobs’s 9 subpoena. Dr. Jacobs argues that “DD has repeatedly sought avoidance and delay rather 10 than complying with the Subpoena. As part of this effort, DD has asserted untenable legal 11 positions as a basis for refusing to comply.” (Doc. 1 at 7.) In response, Desert 12 Dermatology contends that “while Desert Dermatology has been required to make multiple 13 objections due to the nature of and deficiencies in the subpoena, it has provided [Dr.
14 Jacobs] with responsive and substantive information.” (Doc. 5 at 2.) In reply, Dr. Jacobs 15 reiterates that “Desert Dermatology substantially refuses to comply with [the] subpoena.”
16 (Doc. 6 at 7, capitalization omitted.) Because the issuing court has observed the parties’ 17 conduct over the last three years, and Desert Dermatology is (at least for now) a party to 18 the California Action, the issuing court is in a better position to evaluate allegations of 19 delay and insufficiency. Cf. Jud. Watch, Inc. v. Valle Del Sol, Inc., 307 F.R.D. 30, 35 20 (D.D.C. 2014) (“[T]he Arizona court, which has had four years to observe the 21 Respondents’ conduct in the underlying litigation, is in the best position to evaluate Judicial 22 Watch’s argument that the Plaintiffs’ August Subpoena was served for the improper 23 purpose of attempting to harass Judicial Watch because of its political views and/or 24 activism, rather than based on a genuine desire to gather evidence relevant to their 25 remaining claims in the underlying litigation.”) (cleaned up).

26 For these reasons, there is also a risk (absent transfer) of inconsistent rulings 27 regarding the discovery sought. Given the issuing court’s involvement in pending 28 discovery disputes in the California Action and the similarity of the requests for production

1 pending before this Court and the issuing court, a ruling here on the merits of Dr. Jacobs's 2 motion may further complicate already-complex litigation with multiple defendants.
 3 Visionworks of Am., Inc. v. Johnson & Johnson Vision Care, Inc., 2017 WL 1611915, *2
 4 (W.D. Tex. 2017) ("Uniformity of discovery rulings in a case of this complexity is critical 5 to achieving fairness to the parties and non-parties.").

6 Finally, in a related vein, discovery disputes between Dr. Jacobs and Desert 7 Dermatology similar to those raised here will likely arise in the California Action in light 8 of Dr. Jacobs's recent Rule 34 requests for production to Desert Dermatology in the 9 California Action. As noted, the Rule 45 subpoena at issue here and the Rule 34 requests 10 for production in the California Action are essentially identical.<sup>6</sup> This backdrop presents a 11 danger of inconsistent rulings, which in turn favors transfer. Wultz, 304 F.R.D. at 46 12 ("[The] potential for inconsistent rulings should be avoided and weighs in favor of a single 13 judicial officer deciding all of these disputes."); Venus Med., 2016 WL 159952 at *3 14 ("Because two motions involving substantially similar issues are pending before two 15 different courts, the danger of inconsistent rulings is present. This factor militates heavily 16 in favor of transfer."); E4 Strategic Sols., 2015 WL 12746706 at *3 ("Here, however, a 17 ruling by the District of Alaska on a motion to quash raising substantially similar objections 18 to virtually identical subpoenas is certain to occur because ACF and Synder's motion to 19 quash has been fully briefed and is awaiting decision by the presiding judge in the 21       <sup>6</sup> The Court acknowledges that one difference may arise with respect to Request No.

 22 5. This is because Desert Dermatology argues that Dr. Jacobs's counsel's July 27, 2023 23 letter (Doc. 5-2 at 18-22) modified Request No. 5 in the subpoena. (Doc. 5 at 2.) In 24 response, Dr. Jacobs argues that "[a]t DD's direct request in the June 29, 2023 conference, 25 Relator sought to give DD's counsel more narrow and specific examples of the types of 26 documents Relator sought regarding Request No. 5. Disingenuously, DD's [sic] has now 27 told the Court that this is a 'modification letter' that voided Relator's subpoena as a further 28 basis for noncompliance. This is not good faith." (Doc. 6 at 7, internal citation omitted.) Nevertheless, the broader point is that the issuing court is best positioned to resolve this issue because it has more familiarity with the overall case and actions of the parties. Cf. Chem-Aqua, Inc. v. Nalco Co., 2014 WL 2645999, *4 (N.D. Tex. 2014) ("[Allegations of Nalco issuing subpoenas in bad faith] would weigh in favor of transferring these motions to the issuing court that is presiding over the underlying litigation and that is better positioned to assess Nalco's overall discovery conduct and what, if any, bearing that conduct should have on resolving Chem-Aqua's motion to quash and Nalco's motion to compel.").

1 Underlying Action, United States District Judge H. Russell Holland.”); Google, Inc. v.
 2 Digital Citizens All., 2015 WL 4930979, *3 (D.D.C. 2015) (“In this case, Google filed 3 motions to compel compliance with subpoenas in multiple jurisdictions: three in the 4 Southern District of New York, one in the Northern District of California, and three in the 5 District of Columbia. The similarity of motions pending in multiple jurisdictions creates 6 the ‘potential for inconsistent rulings [that] should be avoided and weighs in favor of a 7 single judicial officer deciding all of these disputes.’”) (internal citation omitted).

8           2.       Burden On Nonparty

9           “Transfer is appropriate only if such interests outweigh the interests of the nonparty 10 served with the subpoena in obtaining local resolution of the motion.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 45, 11 advisory committee notes on the 2013 amendments. See also Moon Mountain Farms, 301 12 F.R.D. at 430 (“The Advisory Committee’s notes to Rule 45 make clear that the primary 13 focus in determining whether transfer is appropriate should be the burden on local 14 nonparties.”). Here, several factors suggest that transfer would not be unduly burdensome 15 to Desert Dermatology.

16           First, and perhaps most obvious, the Court doubts this consideration is implicated 17 here in light of the unique procedural circumstances—this consideration focuses on 18 nonparties, but Desert Dermatology is (at least for now) a party to the California Action.

19           Second, even treating Desert Dermatology as a nonparty for the purpose of 20 evaluating the burden of a transfer, that burden is insubstantial. Desert Dermatology is 21 actively litigating in the California Action. (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkts. 184, 198.)
 22 See also Bright House Networks, 2020 WL 4464882 at *2 (“MarkMonitor is not a stranger 23 to the underlying dispute.”); F.T.C. v. A±Fin. Ctr., LLC, 2013 WL 6388539, *3 (S.D. Ohio 24 2013) (“The Kentucky Court determined that transfer to the Florida Court was appropriate 25 because both the FTC and NPC had participated in the Florida Litigation . . . .”). Further, 26 Desert Dermatology’s attorneys have already been admitted pro hac vice in the California
 27 Action. (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkts. 182, 186.) All. Healthcare Partners, 2022 28 WL 16527952 at *6 (D. Ariz. 2022) (“Alliance’s Georgia-based counsel filed a pro hac

1 vice application at the outset of this dispute that was granted. Accordingly, under the local 2 rules of this Court, counsel is now ‘permitted to appear and participate in [this] particular 3 case.’”) (citation omitted). Cf. Hoog v. PetroQuest, LLC, 338 F.R.D. 515, 518 (S.D. Fla.
4 2021) (“Further, there is no burden or prejudice to Mr. Palumbo to have the Eastern District 5 of Oklahoma resolve this matter upon transfer, especially since Mr. Palumbo’s counsel are 6 the very same lawyers who represent the defendants in the underlying litigation.”).

7 The motion to compel is also already fully briefed (Docs. 1, 5, 6), so transferring it 8 to the issuing court would not require much additional effort on behalf of Dr. Jacobs and 9 Desert Dermatology. Disposable Contact Lens, 306 F. Supp. 3d at 380 (“Therefore, 10 transferring this case (which would effectively only require Respondent to refile an 11 opposition brief that he has already submitted) ‘does not rise to the level of unfair 12 prejudice’ to Respondent.”) (citation omitted); Moon Mountain Farms, 301 F.R.D. at 430 13 (“Transferring a motion to the jurisdiction where the underlying litigation is pending that 14 will require few, if any, modifications of the written submissions, [and therefore] does not 15 rise to the level of unfair prejudice.”) (citation omitted).

16 Third, the issuing court has granted previous requests to hold discovery-dispute 17 hearings in the California Action over Zoom (No. 20-cv-01373-JGB-SHK, Dkts. 95, 112, 18 123, 202), and Zoom hearings would reduce Desert Dermatology’s costs associated with 19 litigating the motion to compel in the Central District of California. In fact, Rule 45(f) 20 provides that “[i]f the motion is transferred, judges are encouraged to permit 21 telecommunications methods to minimize the burden a transfer imposes on nonparties, if 22 it is necessary for attorneys admitted in the court where the motion is made to appear in 23 the court in which the action is pending.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 45, advisory committee notes to 24 the 2013 amendments.

25 In sum, given the amount of time the issuing court has already spent overseeing the 26 California Action and its discovery disputes, the fact that resolving the motion to compel 27 may rise and fall on the issuing court’s determination of Desert Dermatology’s status in 28 the California Action, and the overlap between the subpoena and the requests for

1 production in the California Action, the Court finds that exceptional circumstances exist
2 warranting transfer of Dr. Jacobs's motion to the Central District of California. Any burden 3 on Desert Dermatology is outweighed by the importance of consistent management of the 4 underlying litigation and judicial economy.

5 Accordingly,

6 IT IS ORDERED that the Clerk is DIRECTED to TRANSFER Dr. Jacobs's
7 motion to compel (Doc. 1) to the Central District of California and close this miscellaneous 8 action.
